DEATH LIST GROWS

Number of Dead From "Penn-sy" Wreck Is Now Four.

PORTER LAST TO SUCCUMB

Six Others in Serious Condition at Huntingdon, Pa., Hospital.

WASHINGTON WOMAN KILLED

Mrs. J. F. Tavenner of Illinois Avenue One of Four to Meet Death.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., February 16.—The number of dead as a result of the wrecking of the Pennsylvania limited express at Warrior's Ridge yesterday was raised to four today, when Alexander Servant, a porter of New York city died in the J. C. Blair Memorial Hospital, where all the injured were taken. Servant had been badly scalded.

After making their morning round, following the death of Servant, the physicians in charge of the thirty patients still in the hospital announced that none of them would die. Six of the patients, all employees, are in serious conditions. None of the injured passengers is regarded as in any danger.

Those dead, in addition to Servant, are: Harry A. Mass, New York city; Mrs. J. F. Tavenner, 6401 Illinois avenue, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. M. B. Hall, matron on train, New York.

The six patients still in a serious condition are:

Horace Bliss, New York, cook, badly scalded.

Frank Gardner, New York, cook, badly scalded.

J. H. Jones, Washington, Pullman porter, badly scalded.

George Alexander, Jersey City, cook, scalded.

Steven Hitchins, New York, waiter, head and shoulders hurt, burned.

Henry Christian, New York, cook, badly scalded.

Dr. and Mrs. Yeatts in No Danger.

The condition of Mrs. John Y. Yeatts of Milwaukee, sister-in-law of Dr. J. M. T. Finney of Baltimore, is satisfactory. She is suffering from a broken jaw and her arm is also fractured. Dr. Yeatts is not badly hurt and is staying at a local hotel. Dr. Finney, who came here in a special train last night, is attending his sister-in-law, and may remove her to Baltimore during the day. Dr. and Mrs. Yeatts were on their way to Baltimore.

F. H. Wood of St. Louis, general attorney of the Frisco lines, is also reported as doing well. He has a sprained wrist and a broken thumb.

George A. Gates of Nashville, president of Fisk University, also at the hospital is doing well. He suffered a severe shaking-up when the cars overturned, and is badly bruised.

Hospital Cares for Fifty-One.

The hospital took care of fifty-one injured persons yesterday, of whom twenty were discharged before 6 p.m. It is expected that at least a dozen more will be sent away today. Nurses from Harrisburg, Altoona and Tyrone are assisting the local nurses in caring for the injured. All the physicians in this section have also volunteered their services, but they are not needed.

Hundreds of persons visited the scene of the wreck today. The new bridge cars still lie on their side on the river bank. Railroad men from all over the state and from other states are inspecting the wreck. The Pennsylvania limited embodied all the latest ideas for safety in the equipment of the steel cars. Railroad men declare that it was due to the construction of the steel cars that many lives were saved. An off of the old style construction running fifty miles an hour and stopping suddenly must necessarily have been a disaster. In such an event, dozens would have been killed.

The Pennsylvania railroad and state railroad commission are carrying on investigations.

Local Persons Injured.

Mrs. John F. Tavenner of 5401 Illinois avenue was the wife of an employee of the Washington navy yard and the mother of Clyde H. Tavenner, an employee of the office of the sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives. Mrs. Tavenner's body will not be brought to this city, but will be sent to her home in Cordova, Ill., for burial. Clyde Tavenner was but slightly injured, and arrived home last night. Just before the crash came the young man had gone to get his mother a glass of water, and he says he believed his own life was saved by that circumstance.

J. H. Jones of this city was scalded about the face and body, and C. C. H. Jones, a member of the Wyoming legislature, was cut on the face and legs. C. R. McBride, said to be of this city, and George McGowan, also of Washington, escaped injury.

The body of Mrs. Tavenner was recovered from the wreckage by Representative P. W. Mondell of Wyoming and Representative Charles H. Sloan of Nebraska. They were in the train which halted half way on the brink of the embankment. Representative Mondell took charge of a crew of men that rescued passengers caught in one of the splintered cars.

TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Anniversary of Birth of First President to Be Celebrated by Public Schools.

Preparations for the celebration of the anniversary of Washington's birthday in the Washington public schools are being completed. The exercises will be held February 21, February 22 and 23 being holidays.

The programs of the various schools have been left in the hands of the principals of the respective buildings and the supervising principals of the several divisions. The celebrations will include addresses by prominent men. The children will sing patriotic songs and give recitations and tableaux.

Lessons From Washington's Life.

Lessons during the first days of next week will be largely relative to the father of his country, and all the good virtues set forth by him will be extolled to the children.

It is one of the maxims of many educators that a good teacher utilizes the current event for the teaching of his lesson, thus making it more interesting.

Washington's life is a lesson in the life of the pupil, not to speak of the manner in which a thing of the past may be brought vividly into the grasp of the child's mind by a concrete example.

Therefore, the teachers, following this principle, will emphasize the lessons specifically during the next few days.

The manual training lessons in the schools, for instance, will consist of making paper cockades, hatchets and cherry trees, bunches of cherries and flags will be painted, and in all probability busts of Washington will be modeled in clay.

SEVEN ASSOCIATIONS

PETITION FOR BRIDGE

Congress Asked to Provide for New Structure Over Rock Creek at Calvert Street.

Seven citizens' organizations of the Chevy Chase, Connecticut avenue and Bethesda districts have petitioned Congress for an appropriation for the new bridge over Rock creek, at Calvert street, to replace the present structure. Senator Smoot, member of the Senate District committee, has also been urged by residents of those sections which must be reached by trolley over the Calvert street bridge, to use his influence to secure an appropriation for a new bridge.

Has Personal Knowledge.

As Senator Smoot resides at the corner of Connecticut avenue and Calvert street he is regarded as being in a position to know, personally, of the condition of the bridge, and to appreciate the necessity for a new bridge. The work of reducing the width of the roadway of the Calvert street bridge is now in progress, and the footway on the north side of the bridge has been removed. The reduction in width forces all traffic to the middle of the bridge, seriously impeding travel across the structure, it is claimed. Since the narrowing of the bridge on the north side, there is no roadway for vehicles on that side, and westbound traffic is compelled to use the street car tracks.

POLICE WITH THEM.

But "We Won't Rely on Them Intirely," Says Mr. Dooley.

"I wish me Uncle Mike was alive. How he'd enjoy it! He'd be over there now, wouldn't he, boys?" says Mr. Dooley in his article "On the Orange Revolution" in the special feature section of The Sunday Star. "He always said he got more good out of fighting an Orangeman than wading th' right shore, because he never felt sorry for a man who was in the wrong. He'd have about th' print right on his side that he'd have th' polis on his side. He wouldn't like that much, an' it might make him lukewarm. But I don't mind it at all."

"For five hundred years, more or less, ye an' me, Hunnies, have had th' cinary polis an' sojers takin' a hand again in our neighborly rows, an' now thim splindid boddes iv men are goin' to be with us. Think iv it, me boy! We won't rely on thim intirely, d'y mind. We're goin' to have some fun out iv thim triumph after five cinchies iv oppression. I'll be with us as it was with thim when they had th' right."

"First throw th' rock an' thim say: 'Officer, in th' name iv th' king'—it may choke me, boys," says Mr. Dooley in his "pleasantry"—"officer, in the name iv th' king, arrest that man! His father dropped a monkey wrench on me, an' he's head in th' year forty-two. Won't he go quietly? I'll help ye. Come, me, take that, an' that, an' also these!" It makes me a young man again to think iv it."

J. C. Rogers Dies of Injuries.

J. C. Rogers of 408 11th street southwest, who fell Tuesday, while working on the Powhatan Hotel building, at 18th street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, died this morning at the Emergency Hospital.

Rogers, who was employed as a "rigger," was working on a derrick, it was stated, when he lost his balance and fell from the seventh floor to the third. He was unconscious when picked up, and was hurried to the hospital, but never regained consciousness. His spine is believed to have been fractured. Coroner Meitz is making an investigation.

FORCED INTO MARRIAGE BY HUSBAND, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Deborah Jeffreys Tells Remarkable Story When Arraigned for Bigamy.

LONDON, February 15.—A remarkable sequel has developed to the marriage between Horace Field Parrish of Milford, N. Y., the American capitalist-engineer, who is chairman of the Central London Tube railway, and Mrs. Deborah Jeffreys, which took place at Eltham registry office May 8 last year. The woman was arraigned yesterday at Bow street police court on a charge of bigamy. She is a very attractive woman and appeared before the magistrate in a handsome costume. In answer to the charge she said: "I am deeply sorry for what I have done. I wouldn't have done it if my husband hadn't made me."

Husband Forced Her to Wed.

In a formal statement made to the court she declared that she first met Mr. Parrish in January, 1911, when she was presented as a widow. He afterward proposed marriage to her. Her husband, Herbert H. Jeffreys, from whom she was separated, urged her to marry Mr. Parrish. She said she was forced to do so.

Mr. Parrish afterward received an anonymous letter in which his supposed wife confessed what she had done. The marriage was annulled by the high court.

Outlines His Course Abroad.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, February 15.—Myron T. Herrick, recently appointed ambassador to France, said today that it is his purpose to study what has been accomplished in that country toward providing for the financial needs of the agricultural interests.

"In this country," said Mr. Herrick, "we have worked out methods for successfully financing municipalities, railroads, canal corporations, but in a large measure, we have overlooked the financial needs of the farmers. As soon as the people here understand what has been accomplished in France and Germany it will be easy enough to secure legislation to establish organizations to aid for American farmers what the Credit Foncier in France and the Landeshofen associations in Germany have done for the farmers there."

DANTE APPLIES TO COURT.

Says He Can Add $1,900 Annually to Hutchins Estate Income.

Declaring that he can increase the income of the Hutchins estate by $1,200 annually if allowed to remove a warehouse on G street northwest between 14th and 15th streets, and erect two one-story stores, William J. Dante, trustee of the estate, today asked authority of the court to expend $2,000 in the proposed improvement.

HERRICK IS CONFIRMED AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE

Senate Acts Favorably Upon President's Choice, Despite Progressive Objection.

Friends of President Taft and of former Gov. Myron T. Herrick of Ohio had no difficulty, in an executive session of the Senate yesterday afternoon, in overthrowing the progressive friends of Senator La Follette and in having the Senate confirm the nomination of Mr. Herrick as ambassador to France. The woman was arraigned yesterday at Bow street police court on a charge of bigamy. She is a very attractive woman and appeared before the magistrate in a handsome costume.
